

In a time when our freedoms are being challenged outside our homes and our country, honest, hard working citizens should be given the right to come home from a days work and with the best of their ability, enjoy the comfor, privacy and peace that is our home. When repetitive phone calls interrupt that peace, we need to have the right to using the "no call list" rather than having to resort to changing phone numbers, or paying to have caller id etc. Innocent people get manipulated into dealings that only benefit the companies or individuals calling. There was a time when putting a "no soliciting" sticker on your window did the trick. We need to keep any protection that is available in place.
